Work-Based Learning Workshops:
- Be a guest speaker or trainer! Inform a group of youth participants about job skills needed in today’s workforce, career and job opportunities, how to prepare for a job interview, help with resume writing and filling out a job application, mock interviews, importance of soft skills or employability skills. Guest speakers can also provide labor market and employment information about in-demand industry sectors or occupations that are available. Each workshop is 1-2 hours and conducted once a month at the WHYP training center.

These workshops help our youth participants learn technical, academic and employability skills that prepare them for their future careers.

Entrepreneurial Workshops:
- Be a guest speaker! Some of our youth participants want to start their own business and need to gain a basic understanding about how to start and operate a small business and developing the necessary skills and resources available to them associated with entrepreneurship. These 1-hour workshops are conducted bi-monthly at the WHYP training center. These workshops help our youth participants learn the realities of starting their own business and pitfalls to avoid.

Financial Literacy Workshops:
- Be a guest speaker! Inform a group of youth participants about money management (i.e., how to create budgets, manage spending (checking and savings accounts), credit cards and credit reports. Each workshop is 1 hour and conducted bi-monthly at the WHYP training center. These workshops equip our youth participants with the skills to make informed financial decisions and to manage money effectively.

Postsecondary Preparation & Transition Services:
- Be a guest speaker! Inform a group of youth participants about services and resources available to them particularly in the areas of IT, healthcare, construction, trades, hospitality, and food service. We have a different guest speaker come in once a month at the WHYP training center.

This service helps our youth participants learn about postsecondary education opportunities available to them (i.e., technical training schools, community colleges, 4-year colleges and universities, and apprenticeship programs) and assistance with SAT/ACT testing prep, college applications, scholarships, grants and financial aid applications.
Tutoring, Study Skills Training, & Dropout Prevention Services:

- Be a volunteer tutor! Tutoring youth especially in the areas of writing and math is needed throughout the year. Based on your availability and youth participant needs, we will schedule a convenient day/time either one-on-one or with a small group at the WHYP training center.

Tutoring helps our youth participants increase their writing and math skills and develop good study skills. This service helps prevent dropout rates that lead to completion of the requirements for a secondary school diploma or a recognized certificate of attendance or similar document for individuals with disabilities or for a recognized postsecondary credential.

Career Explorations Tours (aka Work-site visit):

- Work-site Visit! Actually visiting a businesses, meeting and talking with company representatives, can be an eye-opening experience for youth participants. Company representatives can provide information on entry level job opportunities available, job skills and/or credential requirements, and showcase the diverse operational job functions within a company. WHYP will coordinate all ground transportation for youth participants and work with a business/organization to schedule this work-site visit. The visit is typically 3 hours and conducted once a month.

A work-site visit helps our youth participants learn first-hand about the different job positions (requirements and expectations) and see day-to-day operations of Hawaii’s local business and companies on Oahu.

Work Experience at your Work Site:

- Provide work experience at your work site! One of the most beneficial aspects of the WHYP is providing youth participants actual on-the-job work experience at a host business site. A case manager would work with a participating business or organization representative to identify appropriate work experience for a participant. Participants must complete all WHYP requirements and are pre-screened by American Job Center managers. In many cases, participants already come with industry-valued credentials. Add names of credentials.

This is a 12-week program (maximum of 30 hours a week). There is no cost to businesses. All liability costs for each participant is covered by the City and County of Honolulu. Refer to “Work Experience Worksite Agreement” attached.

Other In-kind & Support Services:

- There may be other in-kind and support services that your business and/or organization can provide. We welcome and greatly appreciate your assistance. Examples: Adult mentoring, community resource linkage (transportation, child care, housing, etc.); assistance with uniforms, work attire and work-related tools (books, school supplies etc.).
